The exhibition of school work at Grand attracted a large number of visitors. A marked improvement was manifest over the work shown at the former exhibition, and that was very fine. Prof. Russell, with the aid of his efficient corps of assistants, has succeeded in bringing our school up to a very high standard. Our citizens may well congratulate themselves that his services have been secured for another year.

> A couple of weeks since we had occasion to commend the action of the hotel men in this village in conducting their houses without saloons in connection therewith. We regret that the proprietors of the Clifton House have since concluded to open a bar. At the last meeting of the village board a iquor bond for that institution was presented to the board and approved. We hope the time is coming when it will not be thought necessary that a hotel, to be succesaful, must run a saloon in connection with Married, on the evening of June 5th, by Rev. H. W. Harvey, Mr. E. The new of last week. With the exception of being uniforms have been ordered, and will be in extremely hot, the day was fine, and the attendance larger than on any former occasion. The exercises were very interesting, and were opened with an appropriate prayer by Army hall, on Friday and Saturday last, the chairman, which was listened to reverently. The president delivered a com-mendable address, the officers' reports were presented and their re-election followed.
The throng was then addressed by Hon. J. J.
Woodman, Hon. A. B. Copley, and His Excellency, Governor Begole. The addresses were interesting and close attention was paid to them, and notwithstanding it was so nncomfortably hot in the grand stand, but few people left their seats until the close of the exercises. A vote of thanks was extended to the Governor for his address. Hon. A. S. Dyckman read a poem, which was very lengthy, but well delivered, and was honored by a vote of thanks and a request for its publication. The choir discoursed most excellent music, which was not the least pleasant feature of the occasion, and they should have received a vote of thanks. Hon. F. C. Annable and Capt. J. R. Hendryx made some remarks, after which the meeting adjourned to meet at Paw Paw next year.
